

Marriage Vows

Marriage Vows can be an “I do,” or an “I will,” a repeat-after-me, or read to each other. The only legal requirement of a wedding ceremony is that the Bride and Groom verbally indicate they want to be married. The term Expression of Intent and Marriage Vows are really the same thing. You can have an Expression of Intent – which is an “I do” or an “I will.” You can also then have a repeat-after-me Marriage Vow, and then a separate repeat-after-me for the Ring Exchange.

Or you can combine everything into an “I do” or an “I will.” The answer depends on the question – “Will you . . . ?” or “Do you . . . ?” You don’t want the wrong answer – “Will you?” Then you answer “I do.” It’s good to give the “right” answer when you get married.

Bde and Grm can be replaced with the names of the Bride and Groom. Command/shift/h for Word.

Do you like rhymes? See Marriage Vows 27 and 31

Combining the Vows and Ring Exchange

The Ring Exchange can be separate or be included in any vow by Judge Armstrong saying:

To Groom: Grm, as you place this ring on Bde’s finger, please repeat after me.

OR

To Groom: Grm, please place this ring on Bde’s finger.

Do you Grm take Bde as you wife etc. followed by an “I do.”

OR - Vows and Rings Together

See Samples 14C, 14D, 17, 19, 29 and 32A & 32B.

Write your own Vows

These are sample vows that can be changed as you like. Some are religious and some are not. You can delete words, add the words you choose, or write your own vows. These samples may help you with ideas. Don't try to memorize your vows. You can read the vows to each other – Tom holds the vows and hands a copy to the Groom, who reads his vows and then returns the page. Then Tom hands a copy to the Bride, who reads her vows, and then returns the page to Tom.

The person reading needs one hand to hold the page, but the couple holds one hand and the non-reader usually holds the reader's hand with both hands. So it's a three handed holding hands with the fourth hand holding the vows being read.

This is how Tom scripts Personal Vows in the ceremony.

and a copy to the Groom to read to each other.*

Groom: Bde, I love you,
Not only for what you are,
But for what I am when I am with you,

Bride: Grm, I love you,
Not only for what you have made of yourself,
But for what you are making of me.

Groom: Bde, I love you
For the way you brighten my darker days,
And how you keep me motivated in my life long goals.

Bride: Grm, I love you.

For putting your hand into my heart and passing over all the foolish things that I can't help. Dimly seen there and for drawing out into the light all the beautiful qualities that no one else had looked far enough to see.

Groom: Bde, I love you.

Because you have done more than any person could have done to make me good and more than fate could have done to make me happy.

Bride: Grm, You have done it:

Without a touch.

Without a word.

Without a sign.

You have done it, by being my everything life consists of.

Together: I love you - Unconditionally - Completely - Forever.

Marriage Vows - 7. - From I Will Always by Larry S. Chengges

Marriage Vows

Grm and Bde, please join hands and give your vows.

*The Bride hands her flowers to the Maid of Honor.
The Bride and Groom face each other and hold hands.*

Judge Armstrong hands a copy of the vows to the Bride and a copy to the Groom.

Bride: Grm, I Will Always - promise to give you the best of myself, and to ask you no more than you can give.

Groom: Bde, I Will Always - accept you the way you are. I fell in love with you for the qualities, abilities, and the outlook on life that you have, and I won't try to reshape you in a different image.

Bride: Grm, I Will Always - respect you as a person with your own interests, desires and needs, and to realize that those are sometimes different, but no less important than my own.

- Groom: Bde, I Will Always - share with you my time, my close attention, and will bring joy and strength and imagination to our marriage.
- Bride: Grm, I Will Always - pledge to keep myself open to you - to let you see through the window of my personal world, into my innermost fears and feelings, secrets and dreams.
- Groom: Bde, I Will Always - promise to grow along with you - to be willing to face change as we both change in order to keep our marriage alive and exciting.
- Together: I Will Always Love You - In good times and in bad, with all I have to give and with all I feel inside in the only way I know how, - completely and forever.

 To be joy to your heart and food to your soul
 To bring out the best in you always
 And, for you, to be the most that I can be
 To laugh with you in the good times
 To struggle with you in the bad
 To support you when you are discouraged
 To wipe your tears with my hands
 To comfort you with my body
 To mirror you with my soul
 To share with you all my riches and honors
 To play with you as much as I can until we grow old
 And still loving each other sweetly and gladly

Marriage Vows – 30. An Introduction to the Vows

We've come to the point of your ceremony where you're going to say your vows to one another. But before you do that, I ask you to remember that love – which is rooted in faith, trust, and acceptance – will be the foundation of an abiding and deepening relationship. No other ties are more tender, no other vows more sacred than those you now assume. If you are able to keep the vows you take here today, not because of any religious or civil law, but out of a desire to love and be loved by another person fully, without limitation, your life will be full of joy and the home which you are establishing will abide in peace.

Marriage Vows – 31. In Rhyme

If you like rhyme, this will get you started – from an actual ceremony.

Expression of Intent

To Groom/Bride: Do you Grm/Bde take Bde/Grm,

to be your (wife/husband) and best friend,
on whom you may always depend,

in sickness and in health,
in poverty or wealth,

to take walks in the park,
to hold close in the dark,

to share wild adventures,
to grow old and wear dentures,

to travel to exotic locales,
to be the bestest of pals,

on long trips, to be driver,
to watch episodes of MacGyver,

and in times of bad weather,
to get soaked together,

to give comfort in sorrow,
to always be there tomorrow,

to discard all inhibition,
and love without condition,

for as long as you both shall live?

Groom/Bride: I do.

Marriage Vows – 33. From the Beatrice Letters

Marriage Vows and Expression of Intent

Groom and Bride, please join hands and give your Vows.

The Bride hands her flowers to the Maid of Honor.

The Bride and Groom face each other and hold both hands.

Judge Armstrong hands a copy of the Vows to the Groom and to the Bride.

Groom: I will love you as a thief loves a gallery and as a crow loves its murder. I will love you as a drawer loves a secret compartment, and as a secret compartment loves a secret. I will love you until all the secret compartments are discovered and opened, and until all the secrets have gone gasping into the world. I will love you until all the codes and hearts have been broken and until every anagram and egg has been unscrambled.

Bride: I will love you as we grow older, which has just happened, and has happened again, and happened several days ago, continuously, and then several years before that, and will continue to happen as the spinning hands of every clock and the flipping pages of every calendar mark the passage of time. I will love you with no regard to the actions of our enemies or the jealousies of actors. I will love you no matter what is served in the world's cafeterias or what game is played at each and every recess.

Groom: I will love you no matter how many mistakes I make when trying to reduce fractions, and no matter how difficult it is to memorize the periodic table. I will love you if I never see you again, and I will love you if I see you every Tuesday. I will love you as the taxi loves the muddy splash of a puddle and as a library loves the patient tick of a clock.

Bride: I will love you if you drop your raincoat on the floor instead of hanging it up. I will love you as the dark spot loves the leopard. I will love you as a starfish loves a coral reef and as a kudzu loves trees, even if the oceans turn to sawdust and the trees fall in the forest without anyone around to hear them.

Judge Tom Armstrong / 651-773-4092 / Tom@tgarmstrong.com

The Bride and Groom return the copies to Judge Armstrong.

Now that you have expressed your intent to love one another, I will ask you each the most important question of the day.
